LAWRENCE KELSEY: An American in Paris

This catalogue marks Lawrence Kelsey's seventh solo exhibition, LAWRENCE KELSEY: An American in Paris, at Madelyn Jordon Fine Art Gallery, in Scarsdale, New York. Twenty oil paintings by Kelsey will be on exhibit from October 24 – December 6, 2014. We hope you enjoy Lawrence Kelsey's tour de force.

It has been a great pleasure to see Paris painted with such sensitivity, lyricism and passion. For the past 30 years, Lawrence Kelsey has been capturing the urban milieu of New York City in oil, painting his home city almost exclusively. It wasn't until recently that his work evolved from his signature cityscapes of New York to romantic scenes of Paris, Kelsey's second most beloved city.

These works reveal the psyche of the artist while abroad, inherently experiencing all that is Paris. From the city's left and right banks, Kelsey has turned his attention to the eminent monuments, prominent architecture, winding rivers and timeworn bridges of the City of Light.

His signature style, the meeting of the abstract with the representational, has been transported to these sensitive new works--the glow of an orange-toned sunset over the Seine, and the impressionist interpretation of a blooming Luxembourg Garden, for example. Upon setting up his easel abroad, he has actualized a new perspective of an urban-bohemian terrain, and we are delighted with this insightful, visual experience.
